COOKIES

With the growing technology emerging on the internet nowadays 'cookies' are used, and like most other web sites, we use 'cookies' on our site. Many sites do this whenever a user visits their website in order to track online traffic flows.

A cookie is a small piece of data that your internet browser stores on your hard drive enabling us to recognise your computer when you visit the site tailoring your viewing and providing you with customised information.

Only the information that you provide, or your preferences while visiting a web site, can be stored in a cookie.

The site cannot determine the input of personal details, such as your e-mail address, unless you choose to submit them. Information is gathered automatically by the web server, through the use of cookies on the site, and also from your interaction through online requests for brochures as well as the submissions of online enquiries.

You can set your browser to accept cookies. The browser you are using should have specific instructions on how to control the acceptance of cookies and also how to delete unwanted cookies from your hard drive. If you do not wish to accept new cookies or wish to disable cookies altogether, you can set your browser accordingly using its menu bar.
